Tiffany focuses her practice on defending a wide-array of medical providers and facilities, including hospitals, physicians, physician's assistants, nurse practitioners, nurses, nursing homes, private practices, and other healthcare facilities in medical malpractice matters. Working closely alongside clients and the medical malpractice trial team, Tiffany has been a vital asset in helping secure numerous defense verdicts for clients. She handles depositions, motions, court conferences, discovery, expert witnesses, and more.

Additionally, Tiffany supports physicians and other medical and mental health providers through fact witness cases when the need arises. Each year, Tiffany assists with the preparation of audit letters for various health systems which provides them with an outlook on legal costs and other financial aspects of medical malpractice cases.

Tiffany's practice also includes representing correctional medical staff in civil rights related litigation in both state and federal courts. In her civil rights practice, Tiffany develops defense strategies to reduce litigation claims costs. She is integral part of managing all aspects of these claims from depositions, motions, court conferences, discovery, expert witnesses, etc.
