

David Greene Successfully Defends Review Petition in Chronic Pain Syndrome Case

Successfully defended a Review Petition where the employee alleged his work related chronic pain syndrome of the arm spread to his legs. The employee was confined to a wheelchair and required extensive treatment, hospitalizations and medication. David took the innovative approach of recommending a second evaluating (out of the area) physician to bolster the opinion of the initial IME doctor. Value of future medical bills and potential home modifications were estimated in excess of $1 million.
