

Mark Setaro Sucessfully Defends an Alleged Total Disability Claim

Successfully defended an alleged total disability claim involving multiple respondent employers. Petitioner was a young individual who had undergone back surgeries and suffered from failed back syndrome. Approved for Social Security Disability. Claim against insured was dismissed on grounds of no exposure to cause injury or disability during his employment with the insured.