

Matt Laver Product Liability Experience

Defended a product liability action involving a national homeopathic diet supplement manufacturer in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division for Atlantic County, related to claims of a manufacturing defect, design defect, and failure to warn. The Plaintiff claims she required emergent cardiac surgery related to consumption of the product. After filing a Motion for Summary Judgment challenging all theories of liability, the case resolved for under six figures.